

CSA report to AUS for January 27th Meeting

-Have started the process of planning for a lecture series in February as our one in October was such a success. Currently looking into which professors we wish to guest lecturers for it.

-Also started planning a trip to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts to visit the Pompeii exhibit with professor Fronda as a tour guide.

-Classics apparel is ready and waiting to be picked up in Leacock 817.

-Planning how we wish to rearrange Leacock 817 AKA the Classy Classics Students Lounge. We're hoping to make it more functional for tutoring and meetings as currently there are not enough chairs and table space.

-The Classics department is in the process of hiring a Classical Archaeologist, and the three final candidates gave both public lectures and a mini-seminar/ discussion throughout the last two weeks. Conor Trainor - University College Dublin, Katherine Harrington - Brown University and finally Darian Totten - Davidson College and the three candidates. The CSA is gathering students responses to these three lectures to give their input into who should be hired for the position.

-We sent out a call for submissions for the McGill Classical Studies Undergraduate Journal the Hirundo, who are accepting papers until the first week of February.

Events this week:

CAC Greek Sight Translation Exam

The CAC Greek Sight Translation Exam will be held on Thursday, January 28th from 1 pm to 3 pm Leacock 638.
