Report of the Economics Students Association (ESA) on November 28th, 2018

Economics Students Association Business

- The ESA held a wildly spectacular Wine & Cheese with our professors. We have estimated that the event drew over 200 students, and our cheese ran out within the first 10 minutes. Miraculously, our supply of wine was able to keep up with this incredible surge in demand without necessitating us to create a price to control demand.
- In order to provide aid to our students in preparation for finals, the is continuing to hold the ESA Help Desk. Students with an already developed knowledge base are assisting students with a developing knowledge, with an intent similar to the IMF without any of the debts.
- The ESA Journal of Economics is now accepting submissions, which can be concerned about any topic related to economics or finance. The deadline for submissions is December 16th, 2018. Our hope is that by providing this opportunity to our students, we can help satisfy their desire to gain utility by becoming a published author in our journal.

Respectfully Submitted,

Andrew R. Chase
