

Report of the VP External, November 18, 2015

- ACE has a de-stress series coming up from December 2-4! We have booked out ECOLE for another coffee house and are going to be working with Fit For A Cause to have a yoga night. Also planning on having a free breakfast for people who are in exam stress mode. Healthy McGill is providing us with exam distress kits which we will give to people who attend this series! The kits will have ear buds, tea, chocolates, pens, lip balm, etc. We also will be tabling during exams for people to come make holiday cards to send to a local shelter.
- Career Committee: Wrote up the contracts for the Work Your BA Coords; Also booked a bunch of rooms in the SSMU building for events throughout that week... We are reaching out to different people for keynotes and to participate in our various events. One connection works with M for Montreal and Mundial which is hosting a cool series of music events this week so that would be cool if people have B.As
- Met with Brandy from OASIS about the possibility of planning a career fair (to be separate from Work Your BA- frankly two months is not enough time to start this up!) and it turns out she was not the right resource! Going to bring this possibility up with our WYBA liaisons from CaPs.
- Had a lovely phone conversation with a fellow from the AIDS Community Care Montreal; They are looking to work with AUS to have a trivia night that could fund-raise for their group; its supposed to be fun and preventative education, and they are mostly looking for a partnership to promote it... They also have sponsors that give out cool prizes so that could be fun.
- Met with SEDE to discuss a partnership with their alternative spring break... I was excited to maybe help plan but it turns out they're pretty good to go on that front; they are interested in a financial sponsorship and because last year applications were relatively competitive, they were hoping that a sponsorship would allow them to allocate more spots to arts students.
- MASEC is meeting on the 26th. We are interested in collaborating on an alumni mixer.
- ISAC booked out slots for i-week for two potential events including an alumni speaker and a day of food exchange.
- SSMU: The community engagement committee meeting that was supposed to be last week was rescheduled for this Friday. As well I finally heard back from QPIRG about joining the board as their ISG rep! But as of right now that could potentially fail because their meetings are currently scheduled directly on top of ours! Woohoo!
- Also SSMU: Those elections, am I right?
