

Report of McGill Undergraduate Geography Society

Sunday, November 19, 2017

General Updates

- GIS Day – an international event promoting skills in Geographic Information Systems – was a success for the Geography Department! As in past years, the GIC (5th floor Burnside) was filled with students enjoying learning about applications of their studies from business professionals while also enjoying fun games led by Faculty and MUGS executives.

Current Projects

- The Open Mapping Group
  - OMGMcGill is a brand-new group on campus for students, Faculty, and staff interested in open mapping for humanitarian purposes. This group is online, open-sourced map making using freely-accessible data.
  - The group is supported by the MUGS executive, yet operates freely. The first mapathon was a success on November 17th.

Next Meeting

- Executive Meeting: Wednesdays @ 5:30 PM, Geography Lounge (3rd floor Burnside)

Respectfully Submitted,

Jesse Bartsoff
VP External to Arts, MUGS
